AN EXCLUSIVE INVITATION FOR ELEVATE RESIDENTIAL CLIENTS AND SUPPORTERS

Networking lunch with CoreLogic's Tim Lawless

Elevate Residential warmly invites you to attend our annual Brisbane property market update with renowned market analyst Tim Lawless, Research Director with CoreLogic.

This is your opportunity to hear from one of the nation's most esteemed analysts about the current market performance and future market expectations. You'll also have the opportunity to ask Tim questions directly about where Brisbane property is headed.

We hope you can join us at this invitation-only event, proudly presented by Elevate Residential.

Please note: Partners (or a friend/colleague with an interest in property) are welcome. Places are strictly limited - RSVP early to secure your spot.

ABOUT
Tim Lawless

Tim is widely regarded as one of Australia's leading property market analysts and commentators by business and the media.

As the founder of the CoreLogic Australian research division (formerly RP Data), Tim's expertise across property markets has positioned him as one of the country's most experienced and popular property market analysts and commentators. His knowledge and expertise is sought after by myriad government entities and regulators as well as national and international corporate entities operating across property, banking and financial sectors.

As group Research Director, Tim heads up a team of analysts across both Australia and New Zealand and is responsible for reporting on property market conditions and the interplay with economic and demographic factors.
